Justice James Loftus, at 447 Main street.

The office is one of the stores in the Main Street Methodist Church. The place of worship is in a hall on the second fleor, and the stores are at sides of the cutrance, Justice Loftus moved and turned the key of the Main street office over to the agent, George W. Johnson, Lowyer Cabill was left in sole pussession, but as the church people, who own the building, desired the office, they asked the lawyer, through their counsel, John D. Humphreys, to vacate, Cobill said he would, but didn't.

On Monday Mr. Johnson sent a clerk to put a pailock on the office door. Cabill said he had left the office only two minutes to "go around the corner," and when he returned the door was padlocked. He got a hammer and began to bat pailocked. He got a hammer and began to batter down the door. The Rev. R. S. Hulsart, pastor of the church, saw Lawyer Cahill hammering and went over to him. There was a crowd in front of the church. The clergyman said:

"I told Lawyer Cahill he had no right to thus destroy property, and I tried to keep him from getting into trouble. He turned upon me with a savage oath and said: Stand back, damn you, or I'll smash you in the nose! My gracious! but the savageness of the man really alarmed ma, and I called to a policeman to arrest him. But the policeman said he could not do it, but would appear as a witness after I had made a charge sgainst the lawyer. Cahill went on hammering and dnally got in.
"How do you know I broke in?" angrily inquired the defendant.
"You broke the lock and door," said the elergyman.

"You broke the lock and door," said the olergyman.
"Now, don't you know that's a downright lie; don't you?" asked the lawyer.
"Don't you get too oftensive, Mr. Cahill," said Recorder Stewart, bringing down his gavel.
William H. Bullor, one of the church trustees, testified that he was an eyewitness to the breaking of the door. Mr. Julier said: "When I reached the crowd and saw Cahill hammering at the door, I asked a man nearly what the lawyer was doing that for. Cahill turned on me, and, giving me a black look, said: What'n hades lait your business, and who the hell are you?" I told him that he shouldn't destroy the church proporty, and, again turning on me, he raised the hammer as if to strike me and said: "Ill burst the damin door in again and punch the dedgasted head off the idiot that puts another lock on it." Then I became afraid that he'd hammer me next, and went into the church."
"Mr. Cahill, what's your defence?" inquired.

"Mr. Cabill, what's your defence ?" inquired "None of your d-m-excuse me, your Honor, but that's not the trusiness of this court. I'll prove my right to occupancy elsewhere. Here's the lock, staples, and the key of the door; I offer them in evidence."

Then you sales.

them in evidence."

"Then you admit breaking in the door?" inquired the Recorder. "Now, what right did you have to enter those premises?"

"That's none of your business. I'm here to detend a criminal complaint."

"I'll have to hold you under ball to await the action of the Grand Jury." said the Recorder.

"I'll furnish it under protest," Cahill answered.

THE GARBAGE BLOCKADE. Street Cleaning Commissioner Andrews Thinks It Will End To-day.

garbage blockade which has existed i this city since Monday is likely to end to-day. Four of the self-dumping scows of the Barney Company, which have been detained for several days on account of bad weather, came in from sea last night and will be loaded at once The condition of the streets in the poorer sec-tions of the city has not been so bad for many years. Along either sidewalk there is a contin ous line of overflowing garbage barrels; boxes and baskets have also been called into use, and what all these receptacles will not contain has what all these receptacles will not contain has been dumped into the roadways. In many streets the garbage and refuse is piled in the gutters several feet high, and the stench is aimost unbearable.

Hirsec Cleaning Commissioner Andrews says that this will be ended now. The thirteen soows of the Barney Company, the crews of which went on strike against a reduction of wages on Monday, are all in use, manned by new crews. The strike is parily the cause of the present condition of the streets, although last week's storm prevented the ordinary flat scows from going to sea, and there has consequently been an accumulation of refuse. The whole street cleaning force was at work last night, and will also work to-day. By to-night it is expected that they will have made considerable headway.

The striking crews of the Bayney account have and will also work the made considerable headway.

The striking crews of the Barney scows have issued a statement of their grievances, in which they say that their wages have been reduced from $17.50 and $15 a week to $15 and $12, and, finally, on Monday, to $12 and $10. In the mean time the company a revenue from the city for the use of each boat has increased from $17.50 and $10 and $10 and $10 and $10 and $10 are the company to $10 are the company to arbitrate, but the company would not, so they struck. Norwegians have been taken on in their places.

struck. Notwegians have been taken on in their places.

The strikers have been quiet, and have not interfered with any of the new men. Commissioner Andrews apprehended that they would, and yesterday, in anticipation of the arrival of the four soows, wrote to Superintendent Byrnes, asking for police protection. A squad of police from the Leonard street station were accordingly on duty at the Canal street dump last night, and at each of the other dump has were policemen within call. But there was no brouble.

were polloemen within call. But there was no trouble.

In regard to the Barney scows, Commissioner Andrews made this statement yesterday:

"I want to correct a statement that is being persistently made by the World that I recommended the purchase of the Barney cows. It is absolutely false. The Barney Company made a proposition to me to buy the scows, and I submitted it to the Beard of Estimate and Apportionment with a letter in which I said that the cheapest and most economical plan was to buy self-propolling searoing scows, and to do away entirely with tunging. If that could not be done, I said, it would be cheaper to buy the Barney scows than to hire them. I never recommended their purchase."

JUSTICE CULLEN ON BOYCOTTERS They May Not Annoy Even a Man Who Keeps His Saloon Open on Sunday.

The argument on the motion to continue the injunction recently granted by Justice Cullen, in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn, restraining the United Brewers' Association from interfering with the business of the Budweiser Brewing Company, which has been under a boycott by the Knights of Labor for several months, was to have taken place yesterday, but was ad-journed for two weeks. Lawyer Patterson, who appeared for the defendants, asked to have the injunction modified so as to restrain them from doing certain acts.

Justice Culien said: "These men have a right to combine and take away their trade, but they ance. They have a right to use the street, but when they combine and come together and form a body, it becomes an annoyance. They may say, 'Don't work for this man or the other; he is no friend of mine;' but they cannot follow a person and use solicitation against a person's person and use solicitation against a person's will."

"There is another thing," Mr. Patterson interposed. "The dates on which it is said the detendants committed the acts anjoined were bundays, and they are secused of having interfered with persons who were violating the law by keeping opes their salcons on a day on which they are prohibited by statute from doing business."

they are prohibited by statute from doing business."

"That does not protect them," Justice Cullen said, "when they are violating the law. The injunction doesn't prevent the police from acting when the saloon keepers violate the law. There is no doubt that men have the right of combination. They may say they won't vote for a Republican or a Democrat. But they have an more right to prevent men from trading when they may feel disposed than a Republican has to stand in front of a Republican's store and keep customers away."

Justice Cullen directed the insertion of these words in the order: "Restraining the defendants from doing any unlawful acti." An additional order was granted requiring the defendants to show cause why they should not also be restrained from publishing and distributing boycott circulars.
